

This is a proverb (مَثُلُّ).

It literally means:

'Visit on alternate days, and you will increase in love.'

to do something on alternate days.

Another important derivative of this verb is the maSdar miimiyy:

Are you not afraid of the consequence of this action of yours?

In this proverb, the word غَبُّ is Haal.

As you probably know, a maSdar is very often used as a Haal.

رجئت مَشْياً :E.g.

'I came walking.'

الأَلْف يَّة (337) : (337) Ibn Maalik says in his

Which means:

An indefinite (nakirah) maSdar Very often occurs as a Haal

«بَغْتَةً زَيْدٌ طَلَعْ» As in:

('Zaid appeared all of a sudden'.)

'Zaid appeared all of a sudden'.

Here the word بَغْتَــة which is a maSdar has been used as a Haal.

. تَزْدَادُ is the majzuum form of تَزْدَادُ

It is originally تَزْدَادْ, but the alif has been omitted because of الْتَقَاء السَّاكنَــيْــن.

$$\ddot{z}(\tilde{c})$$
 \ddot{c} \ddot{c}

The verb تَزْدُدُ is majzuum because of its being jawaabu I-Talab.

The verb زَادَ يَزيدُ takes two objects as in the aayah:

And say, My Lord! Increase me in knowledge.

(Qur'aan 20:114).

Here the yaa زِدْنِي is the first maf"uul bihii, and الله is the second.

زَادَ of مُطَاوَعَة is the baab viii, and it is the ازْدادَ يَزْدادُ , and so it takes only one maf"uul bihii.

E.g.:

I have increased in knowledge.

زُرْ غِبَّاً does not mean: actually visit on alternate days.

It means: visit infrequently, and this will intensify your longing.
